DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 7-15 allowed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

- (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 2. Claims 1-6 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Miyomoto et al. (6,492,719) in view of Hung et al. (6,430,059) further in view of Kobayashi et al. (6,198,169) further in view of Iizuka (6,472,745).

Regarding Claims 1-6 Miyamoto et al. disclose a semiconductor device where a plurality of tape carries are multilayered in upward and downward directions. In the stacked packages, one ends of leads formed over the whole surfaces of each tape carrier are electrically connected to their corresponding connecting terminal of the semiconductor chip. Other ends of the leads are electrically connected to their corresponding through-holes defined in the tape carrier.

Connecting terminals common to the plurality of semiconductor chips are formed at the same places of the plurality of tape carriers and withdrawn to the same external connecting terminals through a plurality of mutually-penetrated through-holes. Miyomoto et al. fail to disclose the connection member, connection member in the specified configuration and required wire bumps. However, Hung et al. disclose an integrated circuit package substrate integrating with decoupling capacitor where the required connection member is disclosed. Furthermore, Kobayashi et al.

disclose a semiconductor device and process for producing the same where the required connection member in the required configuration is disclose. Finally, Iizuka disclose a semiconductor device where the required wire bump is disclosed.

It would have been obvious to one of having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include the required connecting structure, required connecting structure in the required configuration, and the required wire bumps as taught by Hung et al., Kobayashi et all and Iizuka, respectively in order to have a semiconductor structure with better performance and ease of manufacturability.
